

CENTER FOR AMERICA-CHINA PARTNERSHIP

“A new school of U.S.-China relations provides a complete answer for America and China’s success in the 21st century.”—China Daily

2011 • 486pp • 7×10 • $34.95 • 978-0-9822803-7-9

2008 • 351pp • 7×10 • $32.95 • 978-156171820-7

CHINA DAILY says:

"The Center for America China Partnership is the first US think tank that combines and integrates American and Chinese perspectives."

HON. MAURICE STRONG, former UN Under-Secretary General and Secretary of General of the 1992 UN Earth Summit, says:

"Works of genius, a masterpiece."

SEYMOUR TOPPING of the Council on Foreign Relations says:

"America and China becoming partners must and will become US policy toward China. No one on the Council on Foreign Relations could have written these books because we all come from the same background and think the same conventional way."

PROFESSOR XI RUNCHANG of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences says:

"These breakthrough books create a New School of US-China Relations. They are well thought out and researched books, presenting a win-win mindset and strategies providing a complete answer for America and China's success in the 21st century. American foreign affairs or economic scholars have been unable to transcend their zero sum game mindset and strategies on US-China relations."

AMBASSADOR RICHARD N. SWETT says:

"The authors have illuminated in a unique new roadmap to how and why the world's leading superpower and the fastest rising new power must turn their dangerous competition in a cooperative direction."

PEOPLES DAILY ONLINE says:

"John Milligan-Whyte is called the 'new Edgar Snow' and the '21st century Kissing' and is the only non-Chinese to be elected the winner of the Social Responsibility Award from the China Business Leaders Summit."

WANG GUANGYA, former Deputy Foreign Minister and China's UN ambassador, says:

"These unique books fill important communications and perception gaps in China and America's relationship. John Milligan-Whyte is the missing man needed to articulate and integrate American and Chinese perspectives."

ZHOU WENZHONG, Secretary-General of the Boao Forum and former Chinese Ambassador to the US says:

"John Milligan-Whyte, as an American is able to speak freely and persuasively from both American and Chinese perspectives and address issues that others do not address in the same way or as effectively."

TOM LANTOS, former Chairman of the U.S. Congress Foreign Affairs Committee says:

"I absolutely agree with the game-theory based thesis of these books that neither America nor China can succeed in the 21st century if either do not ensure it and the other are successful."